

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information managing apparatus which is connected to an information processing apparatus and image processing apparatuses has: receiving means for 5 receiving a print document and an instruction manual from the information processing apparatus, in which layout information of the print document and attribute information of each of the layout
10 information are included in the instruction manual; and selecting means for selecting the image processing apparatuses to which the arranged print document should be outputted on the basis of the instruction manual.